

Report of the YEE Project Officer Bianca Badea Work year 2013-2014

Dear colleagues,

Step by step in these nine months that have passed, I understood more and more about my role as Project Officer in the YEE Board. Firstly, I was focusing my energy on being connected with all the members of the Board and the Secretariat, via skype, e-mail and facebook. The physical board meeting played a key role for the cohesion of the team and for the first time during the mandate, being the facilitator of the session regarding the evaluation of implementation of the working plan and the project quality, I felt to carry out my duties. The YEE vision about the future projects changed toward the good.

Until now, I have updated the project timetable, providing the board members with all the information I had from the project coordinators. Only two projects were approved in the first round of application, both of them with experienced teams that did not need any help. In this case collecting information on the evolution and the implementation of the projects was very difficult.

I chose to work and be present in the “Right to be(e)” campaign and in the TC “Follow up and impact in the international projects”. In Romania, I coordinated the workshop team for the campaign in Cluj-Napoca. I have also spread the news of YEE projects in other NGOs from Romania, in order to attract more young and passionate people and extend our network. I established contact and provide information about YEE’s projects to the coordinating team of the Dinosaurs Geopark from Tara Hategului, one of the protected areas of national interest in Romania. As a result, they included the “Right to be(e)” campaign in their calendar and I became the coordinator. Regarding the TC “Follow up and impact in the international projects”, I have contributed to the writing application process.

In order to extend our possibilities of funding I contacted the coordinators of the programme Cluj-Napoca European Youth Capital 2015. They agreed to support YEE to hold the Annual Meeting and also a Training Course in the summer of 2015, in Cluj-Napoca.

This is in general what I have done until now. It is a great experience to be part of such a team. Thank you for your support and hard work!

For any questions, please contact me on e-mail!

Best regards,

Ana Bianca Badea
